WEDDING BELLS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Sunday morning, August 22nd, when Mabel Beatrice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Prosser, of Wainwright, was united in marriage to Charles Edgar, younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wright, of T. & E. Armstrong, B.A., B.D., officiated.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to those present.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to Glacier and Yellowstone Parks.

Home Loan Plan Housing Employees

Believed to be one of the first companies in Canada to provide homes for its employees under the Dominion Housing Act, McCowin's Limited, of London, Ontario, are now completing the first unit in a building plan that may ultimately run to one hundred or more homes.

"We believe that the trend in industry is for employers to take a greater interest in the welfare of their employees and the providing of good type of homes is an important step," J. W. Ross, vice-president of the company stated. "We had the land available and the Dominion housing act gave us the opportunity of financing the development on terms that made it comparatively easy for our employees to own their own homes."

Under the plans as prepared by the company, homes to be built will sell for a sum in the neighborhood of $3,700.00. Built on large lots, with the average about 40 by 150 feet, the homes can be purchased with a down payment in the neighborhood of $700.00. Successive payments of approximately $25.00 a month will take care of principal, interest and estimated taxes.

The company, at present, has under consideration a total of six homes. The first of these, now nearing completion, is a five-room colonial style bungalow. With a living room, 18 feet long and 11 feet, 6 inches in width provision is made for all rooms to be large and spacious.

Homes will be of fire-resisting construction, completely insulated, and with a heating plant under the standard code.

Cars Today Demand High Quality Fuel

The public debt to ingenuity and unceasing effort of research engineers and men of science is nowhere better illustrated than in the story of gasoline.

Today's automobile engine would be impossible if it had to run on even the best kind of gasoline produced in 1910. In that year the average yield of gasoline from a barrel of crude oil was 4 1/2 gallons. Now the yield is 19 gallons, more than four times as much.

In 1908, for instance, motorists of North America used between 18 and 19 billion gallons of gasoline and the refineries processed less than 975 million barrels of crude oil to get it. The best refining methods of 27 years ago could have produced from that crude oil not much more than 4 billion gallons—and that was all the gasoline there was in it.

To have furnished the additional 14 billion gallons of gasoline needed in 1935 by the refining methods of 1908 would have required nearly 8 billion barrels more crude. To have supplied by such methods the quality of gasoline needed by the modern car would have been impossible.

Weather Favorable For Harvesting

In the Prairie Provinces grain cutting is well advanced and threshing has begun in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and southern Alberta. In Manitoba and southern Alberta wheat yields vary from fair to good, and in north-eastern Saskatchewan some early crops of wheat are being obtained. In Quebec prospects in general continue to be satisfactory. In Ontario good average crops of the main staples are expected. In the Maritime Provinces grain, potatoes and apples are all doing well.

British Columbia crops of hay and of peaches are heavy and prospects are satisfactory for grain and root, and for tree fruits generally. Harvesting is well under way in Alberta but operations have been delayed by rains except in the south, where weather is favorable. Many good crops in the central area have been damaged by severe hail. A heavy growth of weeds in the central area to crops in the central area. Pastures and feed crops are satisfactory. Irrigated crops are in favorable condition. In Saskatchewan, harvesting operations are progressing rapidly under favorable weather conditions. Some fair yields are being obtained in the northern and northeastern section where crops show the greatest promise. Elsewhere crops vary from complete failure to small returns. Grasshoppers are numerous; feed supplies scarce. Manitoba's large percentage of the wheat is cut and threshing is becoming general. Crops are light in the extreme western region but in other districts wheat yields will be fair to good. Coarse grains generally are satisfactory.

Serious Shortage of Road Horses

Unless more horses for road work are made available in this province, it will be necessary to secure these animals outside Alberta, according to Hon. W. A. Pallow, Minister of Public Works.

A serious shortage of horses suitable for road construction purposes has developed, according to the minister. So serious has this shortage become in some parts of the province that crews have had to resort to horse-drawn equipment in order to get ahead with their work.

The minister stated a few days ago that the horse situation was delaying the progress of road work in some sections of the province. In order to alleviate the situation, notices were being posted in public places calling attention to the requirements of the department.

Despite the horse shortage departmental crews have made progress in grading, graveling and "blotting" surfacing in many parts of the province, according to reports received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Blotter surfacing has been completed on the Edmonton-Leduc highway and now the department is transferring crew and equipment to commence similar surfacing on the Calgary-Crossfield road. On the seven miles between Calgary and Crossfield, a permanent "seal coat" surfacing has been laid.

We learn that Mr. D. J. Cameron, supt. of the U.G.G. elevators, who has been stationed at Wainwright for the past five years, has been transferred to Edmonton and is moving his family there this week.

POPULAR WAINWRIGHT GIRL MARRIED MONDAY MORNING

Blessed Sacrament (R.C.) church in town was the scene of a pretty wedding at 11:30 on Monday morning, when Miss Grace Rosaline, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welch, became the bride of Mr. Charles Archibald, only son of Mr. Chas. Clark, and the late Mrs. Clark, of High River, Alta.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father A. Hickey assisted by Rev. Father J. McGraw, of Irma, and Rev. Father M. J. Schmitzer, of Daysland.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was handsomely gowned in ivory lace over ivory satin, made on Princess lines and slightly on train; her veil being of matching tulle, the cap held in place by tiny steel pearls. She carried Biarritz roses and lilies of the valley. Little Master John Mackenzie, dressed in a perfect costume of pink and blue satin was the train bearer.

Miss Bonnie Welch, who was sister's maid of honor; she being attired in blue tulle (Redington style) opening over rose net. She wore rose-tinted accessories and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Alex. Ballachewy, of High River, and the ushers were Messrs. C. Enright, G. Middleton and D. Wallace. Mrs. Geo. L. Hudson, of Edmonton, sang "O day of golden promise" being accompanied by the organ by Mrs. Leo O'Reilly.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, the guest seats being indicated by sweet peas and satin streamers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Fifth avenue, and for receiving Mrs. Welch, mother of the bride, chose a gown of mist grey lace fashioned in tulle style, with which she wore navy blue accessories; a corsage of pink roses completed her ensemble. Assisting her in receiving the numerous guests, Mrs. F. L. Watt, of High River, aunt of the bridegroom, wore blue lace with accessories in a rose tint. Her flower ornament consisted of roses.

The spacious rooms were profusely decorated with banded flowers, and the bride's table, set in the dining room, was artistically arranged and centered with the time-honored four-tiered wedding cake. The lawn and gardens were also in full use for the many reception guests among whom were numbered from out of town—Mr. Charles Clark, Sr., and Mrs. Alex. A. Ballachewy, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Soby, Mayor and Mrs. Frank Watt, Miss Winifred Westphalen, all of High River, Dr. and Mrs. N. Sheehan, of St. Paul, Mrs. Richard Aykroyd, and Mrs. Keith Miller of Edmonton, and Miss Zella Oliver, of Calgary.

During the buffet luncheon Mr. Alex. Adams played a number of violin selections, being accompanied on the piano by Mr. Doug. Spraggell. Thanks to the happy couple were proposed by Mr. Wm. Knowles and Mr. J. A. Mackenzie, these being fittingly responded to by the groom and others. Later in the afternoon, the newly-married couple left to spend their honeymoon at the coast, traveling by Edmonton and Calgary, where they will have the free use of a new motor car which has been placed at their disposal by the Ford Co. of Alberta.

For traveling the bride wore an ensemble of aquamarine with blackings, hats, shoes and gloves matching a top coat of brown.

The bride has been the guest of honor at numerous "showers" and other gatherings lately. She will be well-represented here, having lived in town practically her whole life. Before entering matrimony, she was employed at the high school staff of High River, Alta. She has been the recipient (with her husband) of hundreds of wishes for much joy and a long and happy married life, in which the Star joins.

Each Gun Only 12 Ducks Daily

OTTAWA.—The department of mines and resources has announced migratory bird regulations for the 1937 hunting season, extending the restrictive principles of the 1936 regulations imposed to meet serious depletion of water-fowl through over-shooting and through drought on prairie nesting grounds.

The regulations, which include bag limits for ducks and geese and open-season dates in the various provinces, follow the recent announcement from Washington of continuance in 1937 of "very strict regulations" in effect in the United States in 1935 and 1936 under the migratory birds treaty.

In all provinces, bag limit for ducks is placed at 12 a day. Bag limit for the season is 150 in the maritime provinces, Ontario and Quebec, but is 100 in the prairie provinces and 125 in British Columbia.

In the prairie provinces, bag limit for geese is five a day, but the seasonal limit is placed at 50 in Manitoba, 20 in Saskatchewan and 25 in Alberta.

In British Columbia, bag limit for geese (including Black Brant) is five a day, 50 for the season.

Prohibition of baiting and live decoys continues in all provinces.

Following are open season dates: Alberta—North of the Athabasca and Clearwater rivers open season for ducks, geese and Wilson's snipe will be from noon on Sept. 1 to and including Oct. 30; south of the Athabasca and Clearwater rivers open season for ducks, geese and Wilson's snipe will be from noon on Sept. 15, to and including Nov. 15.

British Columbia—In the eastern district, except the provincial electoral districts of Skeena, Atlin, Omineca, Fort George, Peace River, Salmon Arm, Stikine, North and South Okanagan, open season for ducks, geese and Wilson's snipe will be Sept. 15 to Nov. 15.

Gardens are Full Riot Of Colourful Growth

The copious rains of the past two or three weeks have surely proven to all in this district that it is not the barren waste some would have us believe. This is fully proven by the remarkable growths which have been noticed around town in both flower and vegetable gardens.

One of the very many pretty layouts in town worthy of note is the Old Country "tea-land" setting which Dr. Wallace has hobbled with during his spare (?) moments during the past several weeks, and which is now returning full interest for the labor involved by becoming a veritable riot of blossoms. The pees de resistance of the garden is a well-planned lily pool, replete with blooming water lilies surrounding the wee fisherman and feeding herons.

Backed by a bank or rock-garden this forms a pretty center for one and of well-kept lawn, which is truly walled in by thousands of blooms among which are to be found varied specimens of sweet peas, poppies, roses, zinnias, asters, antirrhinum, calendula, large ruffled petunias, African daisies, lilies, tagetes, morning glories, phloxes, portulaca, gladioli, gloriole, in sodas, kochia, dahlias, cosmos, etc.

In addition, of course are a few well-spaced tree growths, as well as several large bushes of hemp. With the other lawn beds and trees on other parts of the property the whole forms a worthy answer to "how do you spend your spare time?"

Another property worthy of mention is that occupied by Inspector Lorne Good, on Main Street, where all and sundry may view the garden of a horticulturist of no mean note. Mr. Good has for years specialized in gladioli culture, and has always been able to coax "the bloom which scents the evening air" into full and glorious maturity, has this year repeated his efforts into a veritable bower of posies. Among these can be numbered several varieties of sweet peas, dahlias, gladioli, phloxes, alysium, antirrhinum, zinnias, poppies, calendula, African daisies, panes, and so forth, and the vegetable and root growths have not been neglected either. From the humble "murrill" to the carefully-handled "cuke" practically every common table vegetable has been raised to maturity by Mr. Good, with the result that he has truly one of the show gardens of town.

Still another riot of blossom growth is to be seen in the gardens of Mr. W. (Billy) Tansley, who spends practically the whole of his summer chasing bugs (or is it mosquitoes?) from his glorious galaxy of blooms. In full foliage and blossom at present can be seen hundreds of beautiful specimens of gladioli, and these include asters, urinals, balsam, chrysanthemum, cornflower, marigolds, mocka, daisies, cosmos, salpiglossia antirrhinum, larkspur, alysium, godetia, cornopoda, nasturtium, myosotis, portulaca, Iceland poppies, physalis, cineraria, ruby larkspur, daisies, sinias, spires, lobelia, linum, kochia, tagetes, mignonette, nemoda, petunias, verbena, pansies, pyrethrum, helianthus, dianthus, dianthus, geraniums, gladioli, Sweet William, sweet peas, nigella, etc.

Furthermore, there are dozens of other gardens in town upon which our citizens have expended very many hours of patient labor, and which are showing splendid returns, among some of these being those of Messrs. W. Carrell, M. G. Gardiner, Dr. Middleton, H. C. Link, F. Hart, L. Mitchell and many others, and the home of Mr. W. W. With his well-tended lawn and trim hedges is still further proof that these labor of love added to the copious rains have resulted in a full riot of growth for our gardens.

In answer to the many enquiries regarding Mr. M. L. Foster it is sorry to note that his health is not showing much improvement. He is still in hospital.

Shirley Temple in Comedy Drama

In the week-end picture at the Elite theatre, Shirley Temple is afforded double opportunity to display her seemingly limitless talents in "Dimples".

The story is dated 1850, the place New York. The star is a street urchin, singing and dancing for coins with a band of children fondly but loosely looked after by her grandfather, an impoverished aristocrat of pliable principles. Circumstances associate them with the affairs of the Drama and large romantic interests of Allen Drew, who is to produce the then new play, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which, following numerous complications, Dimples plays the part of Eva in such a manner as to bring complete and, incidentally, logical happiness to all concerned.

Frank Morgan's performance as the child's impoverished grandfather is among the finest works. Helen Westley as Caroline Drew gives life to one of those black nobly-browed aristocrats that nobody believes exist. Robert Kent and Delma Byron make the romantic interest vital without overemphasis, and Astrid Allwyn suggests the selfish other woman effectively without shouting.

Power Gang Win "Mystery Trophy"

The Power Gang of Wainwright won the first championship of the Softball League and by virtue of their win become first holders of the Mystery Trophy.

The final game of the Wainwright Community Sports Union Softball League was played Sunday afternoon before about 400 spectators at the site of the "Murderer's Row" where the Power Gang proved to be too much for the Greenhorns Indians to hold down. After a close game, featuring smart playing on the part of these two evenly-matched teams, the final score was 9-6.

The Power Gang started right in to work on pitcher Hill's offerings and ran in four runs by Confield, Mitchell, Torg and Keman in the first inning. They added one by Confield in the second. Schilt and Confield scored in the fourth, Torg and Keman in the fifth and Gumm completed the scoring for the Gang in the sixth.

For the Indians, four two scoreless innings, Duke Ott drove out a home-run in the third inning; Hill and Carl scored in the fourth; Taylor and Ivan Jackson scored in the fifth; and Bond brought in the final run for the Indians in the eighth.

Spud Confield turned in a good performance at short-stop; as well as getting four hits out of five times. During the game Ricker had to leave due to a hand injury. Neeson took over the catching duties.

Score by innings—
Power Gang 4 1 0 2 1 0 0 6
Indians 0 0 1 2 0 1 0 6

Batteries: R. Carl and Newton Hill; Ricker, Nelson and Keman Torg. Umpire: E. V. Spraggell.

In an exhibition game played last Friday, the Power Gang turned back Jack Alderman's All-Stars by a score of 17-14. The All-Stars used three pitchers in an unsuccessful effort to stop the Gang.

Head of L.O.B.A. Pays Local Visit

At their regular meeting on Tuesday last the members of the L.O.B.A. had as their guest Mrs. Jeanne Fisher, of Calgary, the provincial grand mistress of that order.

Present also with the local members were a number of visitors from the Calgary and Edmonton divisions, and during the proceedings the local degree staff exemplified their work by initiating a candidate.

During the lunch which followed the regular agenda, Mrs. Watts, P.M., made a presentation to the visiting official, which was accepted and responded to in a neat speech.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Fisher was taken for a drive through the National Park by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Miller, following which all the party were guests of Mrs. D. W. Davison for dinner.

On the following day (Thursday) Mrs. Fisher paid her official visit to the Irma lodge, being accompanied there by quite a number of the local members from town.

Trans-Canada Air Service

The routes to be flown by the Trans-Canada Air Lines will be: Halifax-Moncton-Montreal-Winnipeg-Regina-Lethbridge-Vancouver (with connections to and from Toronto), Lethbridge-Calgary-Edmonton and Vancouver to Seattle, with the probability of the addition in the future of other mail passenger services such as Toronto-Hamilton-Windsor. It seems likely that the first divisions to be placed in operation will be the Prairie and Pacific Divisions. Winnipeg-Regina-Lethbridge-Calgary-Edmonton and Lethbridge to Vancouver. The approximate mileage of these divisions is 1,500 miles. No date can yet be set, however, for the opening of regular service on any route as the survey and preparatory work will be carried out with the greatest of care. The route through the Rocky Mountains has been tested very thoroughly and it is the belief of the Department of Transport experts that Canada has one of the best of the four transcontinental routes now being used in North America. This Canadian route traverses the Rockies through the Crow's Nest Pass.

Bearing in mind that this is written in the very early stages of the development of Trans-Canada Air Lines, the following outline of possible schedules may be examined in order to obtain an idea of the approximate time between centres by the planes of the corporation:

Approx. hours

Montreal-Vancouver 17

Montreal-Winnipeg 9

Toronto-Vancouver 16 1/2

Toronto-Winnipeg 8 1/2

Winnipeg-Regina 2 1/2

Montreal-Edmonton 15

Winnipeg-Edmonton 7

Halifax-Montreal 4

The staff of the railway consider it a mark of confidence in the Canadian National organization that the Minister of Transport with the co-operation of Parliament, should have placed the operations of the Trans-Canada Air Lines in charge of the Canadian National together with administrative flying officers of the public service. Arrangements have been made whereby the full resources of the railway organization will be used to make known the day to day developments in this airway service and to make available to those who plan to use its express and passenger facilities all possible information through the railway's traffic and other representatives. The Minister of Transport drew the attention of the House of Commons to the fact that the committee which considered the development of civil aviation within the United Kingdom recommended that for the development of airline service across England, railway co-operation should be sought. The Minister proceeded to give instances in which the facilities of the railway would be of great value to the airline-ticket offices, facilities for the solicitation of express and passenger business and many other points where services would be more or less parallel. "In any event," said Hon. C. D. Howe, "after the consideration of these matters the government has decided that its agency for transportation, the Canadian National Railways, should be the means of organizing this company, just as it was used as the means for operating such shipping as the government owned, and the means of operating other government transportation facilities."

In discussing the Trans-Canada Air Lines it is difficult to place too great emphasis upon the marked improvement that will accrue as the result of this air line development. No feature of the plan is more important. In all arrangements, including the starting time of the planes from important terminals, the policy will be carried out that the mails must go through in the shortest possible elapsed time, preferably after the close of the business day, in order to expedite the commerce of the country. The Minister of Transport has pointed out that the pilot must fly by night as well as by day, in fog and storm as well as in clear weather. For that reason a radio beam must be provided between landing points which will keep the pilot on his course whether or not he has any visible contact with the ground. Parliament was informed when the Trans-Canada Air Lines bill was being considered that a careful analysis of air mail revenue had been made by post office Department. It was anticipated that, with this regular revenue, the Trans-Canada air operation would be the third year, pay for itself through the carriage of mail alone.

The inauguration of air line service across the Atlantic has an important relationship to the Trans-Canada Air Lines services. After regular services have been established and operated for a period, a joint operating company will be formed which will be responsible for carrying on the services. The joint operating company will be incorporated on the instance of three companies, one nominated by the government of the United Kingdom, one by the government of the Irish Free State, and one by the Canadian government. The company nominated by the Canadian government is the Trans-Canada Air Lines. The capital of the Joint Company will be subscribed and held as to 51 per cent by the United Kingdom, company (Imperial Airways), 24 1/2 per cent by the Canadian company (Trans-Canada Air Lines) and 24 1/2 per cent by the Irish Free State company. The Pan American Airways will be granted landing facilities by the governments of Canada, the Irish Free State, the United Kingdom and Newfoundland, and will participate in the services on the basis of reciprocity with the Joint Company. The United States government will, in turn, grant landing facilities in that country to the Joint Company, composed of British, Irish and Canadian interests. It is understood that west-bound planes will, after crossing the north Atlantic, land at Newfoundland, proceed to Montreal (an alternative stop is at Shediac, N.B.) and proceed to New York. Eastbound the order of stops will, of course, be reversed.

It is hoped that the survey flight will establish the entire feasibility of a regular service for mail and passengers, twelve months of the year, across the north Atlantic.

On the arrival of the Empire flying boat Caledonia at Montreal on July 24, when she completed her trans-Atlantic survey flight, her commander, Capt. A. S. Wilcockson, First Officer A. H. Bowes and radio officers Valette and Hobbs were greeted by Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, by the President and directors of Trans-Canada Air Lines, by a representative of the British High Commissioner, and a host of Montreal citizens. Commander Wilcockson and his officers were later the dinner guests of Mr. Hungerford. Remaining in Montreal over the night, the Caledonia was flown to Port Washington, near New York, and returned on July 12th. Before taking off on the return flight to Britain on July 13th, Commander Wilcockson expressed admiration for the landing facilities which had been provided. He regretted, however, that his return flight must begin before he had an opportunity of meeting the Trans-Canada survey fliers, then at Kapuskasing, completing their survey of the final link in the airway between London and Vancouver, B.C.

Welcoming the fliers on their arrival at Montreal, Mr. Hungerford said: "Captain Wilcockson: You have forged a new link in Empire transport, one which will develop in years ahead a closer commercial contact between Britain, Ireland, Canada and the United States. Trans-Canada Air Lines welcome the opportunity which is to be afforded to them of being associated with Imperial Airways and the Irish Free State in the operation of trans-Atlantic air service. You will be glad to know that excellent progress is being made in preparation for the establishment of a regular Trans-Canada Air Lines service spanning the Dominion from coast to coast, linking up with the trans-Atlantic service."

THE HEART

The heart is a most important organ which acts as a pump and thus keeps blood moving throughout the body. Any unusual condition of one part or organ of the human body may result "in the upset of other organs, such as the heart, with perhaps some permanent damage. Pain in the region of the heart does not always mean heart disease. It may be due to some heart condition, but it is much more frequently caused by some condition of the stomach, such as improper digestion of food. Usually the first symptom of the heart's being below par is shortness of breath on slight exertion.

In old age, it is not unusual to find that the heart is not doing its work as well as it did. This is part of the general wearing out of the tissues, and means that life must be so regulated that neither at work nor at play is the heart given more to do than it can accomplish without undue exhaustion. Persons, young or old, who have a weakened or damaged heart, can live long lives of usefulness, providing they avoid doing such things as heavy lifting, which throw a sudden strain on the heart. They must also avoid those activities which cause shortness of breath or pain, always stopping immediately to rest when symptoms appear. Exercise in the form of work or play which does not cause symptoms is usually of benefit.

The most common cause of heart disease in young people is infection.

The germs which settle down in diseased tonsils, adenoids and teeth very often travel around the body and they may, and very frequently do attack the heart. The heart may also suffer from the germs and the poisonous products by the germs in such diseases as diphtheria, scarlet fever and influenza. Damage to the heart is a comparatively common result of acute rheumatism. Syphilis is also an infection which is very liable to attack the heart and blood vessels. The removal of diseased parts, such as diseased tonsils, and the avoidance of infection are the basis of the prevention of heart disease.

RICHARD CROOKES

He Went Hungry To Hear Caruso—But He Turned Down $1,000 a Week and Refused a Contract At The "Met"

Away up in the land of the midnight sun near the northern tip of Norway lies a town settling of food liver oil and salt fish—a bleak barren town called Hammerfest, the northernmost town in Europe.

I visited Hammerfest a few years ago and noticed some American phonograph records in one of the store windows. What sort of music do these fishermen listen to during the long Arctic winter when they never see the sun for months at a time?

I examined the records—and found that they were sacred songs sung by Richard Crookes.

Expert musicians have told me that Richard Crookes is the most distinguished tenor America ever produced—and he is certainly one of the best-loved. He has sung with the greatest symphony orchestras in the world. He has sung at the Chicago opera, he is starred at the Metropolitan, and you can hear him frequently on the air.

As a young man Richard Crookes was so poor he had to do hard manual labor to get money to take music lessons. He lived in Trenton, New Jersey; at fourteen, he got a job painting the big reservoir tanks for the gas company. He specialized in painting the tops of the structures on an eighty-foot ladder, because that was dangerous and he was paid fifty cents more a day for doing it.

At seventeen, he was loading ice on ice wagons for twenty cents an hour, he had to get on the job at three o'clock in the morning.

When he came to New York to study, he lived in one room with four other boys. The room was a shanty, but they managed to live in it. The room cost five dollars a week, and the five boys split it five ways. He ate in cheap restaurants. "The food wasn't very good," he told me, "but I didn't mind for I had a healthy appetite and I liked any kind of food if it only had a lot of ketchup on it."

He used to go hungry all day to hear Caruso sing. He would deny himself all food for a day except a pint bottle of milk and then go to the opera and pay a dollar ten cents for standing room in the topmost gallery. In order to get a good standing place, he had to go early, so he would go to the opera about four o'clock in the afternoon and stand there until almost nine at night waiting to hear the immortal Caruso.

"I was awed by Caruso," he told me. "I felt then and I still feel that he was the most wonderful singer who ever lived. I used to go to the library and read articles and biographies about him. I discovered that he too had been poor, that he had to work in a factory until he was twenty-one years old and that his mother had gone without shoes in order that he might have music lessons."

SEED TREATMENT

IS INDISPENSIVE

"All growers and distributors of seed have a very direct responsibility in the matter of seed-borne diseases," affirmed Dr. J. H. Craigie of the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory Winnipeg, addressing members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, at Saskatoon. Referring to seed treatment as a protection against smut and root rot, Dr. Craigie said that never in the history of agriculture have remedial measures been so effective, simple and inexpensive. He explained that when seed is treated with organic mercury dust not only are external-borne organisms destroyed but the fungicide on the seed affords considerable protection to the germinating seedling against seedling against soil-inhabiting parasitic organisms such as those which cause damping-off and seedling blights.

Dr. Craigie commended the growing practice by seed-houses of treating much of their seed before distributing it, and believed the practice would soon be general. Something might be done, he thought, to instill into the grower a consciousness that to grow a diseased crop is an uneconomical act, just as it is to allow, for many a year, to become over-run with weeds. In some countries central treating plants might be established; in others a portable seed-treating outfit might be used. H. J. Kemp of the Swift Current Experimental Station appeared on the program and, at a convention and delivered a very interesting address on the principles of the new automatic machine which he has produced for the purpose of treating seed grain with organic mercury dust.

THRESHING CRISTED

WHEAT GRASS

Threshing machines are made to thresh grain but with certain adjustments they can be used to thresh grass seed. When the crop is dry and free of weeds, all teeth should be removed from the concaves. If tough or big weeds are mixed with the sheaves, one row of teeth may be necessary. The concave frame should be lowered and front concaves replaced by narrow boards. Concave teeth will smash up straw that will go over. This makes separation of the seed from the straw more difficult and some will be lost by going over with the straw. Reduce speed of separator by about three revolutions per minute. The top shutters of the air inlet must be closed and the bottom ones open enough to raise the chaff but not the seed. The adjustable screen should be set about the same as for oats to allow the seed to pass freely through it. The fast board should be raised as high as it can go to prevent the seed from passing over. The weed opening at the bottom of the shoe must be kept closed.

The general tendency in threshing grain is to get the job done as quickly as possible. In threshing grass seed, however, the operator must be slow and steady and even. The adjustments on grass seed are done with the idea of: (1) avoiding excessive smashing of the straw, (2) keeping the seed from raising on to the straw deck where it will be lost, and (3) preventing clogging of the chaffer, but different makes of separators will have to be adjusted accordingly.

The average human being is ill 30 times during his lifetime.

TODAY & TOMORROW

by Frank Parher Stockbridge

REVOLUTION . . . human rights

I have not been able to scare myself, as so many of my friends do, with the fear that the United States of America is heading for a revolution. We are not going to have another Revolution in America unless and until some man or group with power to enforce their will upon the rest of us undertakes to deprive us of our liberties as human beings and free citizens. If that ever happens, then there will be a revolution. So far I have been unable to see any signs of anything seriously pointing in that direction. There have been utterances and gestures, some of them from high places which indicate an uneasiness because we still, as people, refuse to take orders to do what we do not believe in. We have not been committed, but nothing which I can take seriously as a threat to our fundamental liberties. Let those be actually menaced, and we will see a revolution—at least a revolt against whoever tries it—and it will be short, sharp and decisive, with the people of the United States reasserting their rights.

LIBERTIES . . . protection

What are the rights which so many fear are in danger? They are set down in the first ten amendments to the Constitution. That "Bill of Rights" is worth rereading. If I, a schoolmaster, I would have my pupils read it aloud every morning, so they would grow up knowing that they are free American citizens whom no authority, least of all one which they themselves or their forebears has created, can push around with impunity.

Read it. Interfere with the churches or the practice by everyone of the religion which pleases him. No power can forbid you to speak your mind on any subject, by voice or in print. Our rights are secure to assemble peacefully, to petition the government for redress of grievances, to bear arms, to be secure against search and seizure of our persons or property without due warrant—read the whole list. That is only part of it.

I think that whenever any authority tries to deprive us of those liberties there will be a revolution in America, but not till then.

DICTATORS . . . Washington

Many of my timorous friends who do not fear a popular uprising—a revolution—have a bad case of the jitters over their conviction that the nation is heading for a dictatorship, in the European fashion. I do not share that fear, either.

We had a dictator once. His name was George Washington. In 1777, the American Revolution was against King George III was going badly the Continental Congress voted to give the Commander of the army complete control of the whole country, to conscript citizens for soldiers, to commandeer food and supplies, to levy taxes, to give and give orders which had the force of law, and use any means he desired to carry them out.

Washington, armed with those powers, such as no other American ever had, before or since, won for the people the liberties which the British King had denied them. He could have kept those powers and made himself an absolute ruler. Instead, he presided over the convention of 1787 which framed the Constitution, carefully planned to prevent the concentration of power in any one man or in the Federal government, but making the people as a whole the supreme authority.

House of Hazards

By Mac. Arthur

The system of government set up under the American constitution has outlasted any other system which was in existence in the world in 1787. It was the first government ever set up in which the people as a whole held all the power. Under the Constitution a few strictly limited powers are delegated to the Legislative, Executive and Judiciary branches of the Federal Government, and all other powers are reserved explicitly to the states or to the people.

Our system works because of the checks and balances provided by the division of powers. The Constitution is the supreme law of the land. All laws passed by Congress must conform to its restrictions. The Supreme Court has sole power to measure laws by the Constitutional yardstick and decide whether Congress has exceeded its powers. And the sole duty of the Executive is to see that the Constitutional laws of Congress are enforced. None of the three branches may delegate its powers or infringe on the powers of either of the others.

Every public official, civil or military, in the United States, has to declare his loyalty to our institutions, usually under oath. So do the officials and soldiers of every other nation. They have to swear fealty to their respective rulers.

In the British Empire they must pledge themselves to be loyal to King George. The Japanese swear to be faithful subjects of the Son of Heaven, the Mikado. In Germany, loyalty is pledged to the Third Reich, which is the National Socialist Party, the present government. Italian officers give their oaths to the King, who has delegated most of his authority to Premier Mussolini, whose word is the King's law.

In America we do not swear loyalty to any man, any party or any government. No man is required to take an oath that he will obey the President, support whatever government happens to be in power, or be faithful to any particular political party. Instead, every person in office, every legislator, every judge, every executive, every officer of the Army or Navy, takes the same oath of fealty that the President himself takes, pledging loyalty to the Constitution and to the nation of which it is the supreme law.

A London clothes designer said he was unable to find a well-dressed man in the United States during a recent tour. Yet there used to be some well-dressed men over there. But that was in the depression days. They are wealthier now and don't bother.

WHO WILL TEACH YOUR CHILD?

"A teacher's advice is occasionally taken," says a writer in a current magazine article on "I like to teach." For this reason and because what a teacher actually is, should doubtless be what he or she says, the question in our heading is all important to the parents of Wainwright and district.

The merry chatter of children in groups going to or coming from school will soon be heard again, and for many hours each day the plastic personalities of these future citizens will be subjected to the impressions made upon them by those in charge of their school classes.

Those in higher authority presumably do their best to make sure that only those with good characters and purposes enter the teaching profession. These are carefully trained and from their ranks local Boards select teachers whom they feel are able to meet the standards and requirements of the district affected, and properly lead and instruct those placed in their charge.

In some schools the leadership is such that pupils "come out" from under the pressure of study because nobody has to work in order to pass.

We hope that those who at the coming term will be set to teach our young will keep the standards reasonably high without bringing on any cases of nervous prostration, and moreover we trust that discipline will be such that, while not of the fear and pressure type, the example and prestige of the teacher will be such as will breed in the pupils a real respect of all those in rightful authority, and also impress upon them the smartness and signs of being able to measure up high ideals and worthy aims.

And, lastly, as opportunity affords, parents and guardians should take a friendly interest in and co-operate with those who to the child is very often guide as well as good!

WAINWRIGHT ROAD

We hear a lot of comment, and read much in the newspapers about some of our trunk roads, and the bad condition in which they are frequently to be found, but we haven't heard a word about the little stretch of road that gives this district access to the great outside world.

For years we have been paying gasoline tax, car license fees and what not; for years we have been sending petitions, delegations and urgings to the departmental heads, and high-pressure our local M.L.A.'s for a passable road to the west. And the results? So far we have forty-five miles of road, a large part of which is recognized by local dwellers and outsiders alike, as one of the surest roads in the province—its always sure to be bad with the least provocation.

And the unfortunate part of it is that there is no really satisfactory detour.

Last Saturday night Dr. de Beaupre left Chavuin with a patient bound for Wainwright hospital. It took him hours to get through, and then the trip was only completed with the aid of a tractor. And he was not the only one for there were a number of other cars on the road in much the same predicament.

We feel, that with all the money being spent on other highways in the province, we should be entitled to a road which is at least passable. We would urge that the Wainwright Board of Trade, and any other organizations should do all in their power to have this road kept in better shape for business between the towns must depend to quite an extent on the condition of the road which joins them.

(The above does not refer to this end of the Wainwright road, which is kept in good shape by those responsible.)—Chavuin Chronicle

BROTHERHOOD IN ACTION

The Mormon Church has undertaken a task which is well worth study by other religious and social groups. It has set out to abolish poverty among its members—and so far it has made amazing progress.

No Mormon is permitted to stay on relief, or become dependent upon public funds, under this plan. The church as a body has assumed responsibility for seeing to it that none of its members goes without food, clothing or shelter, and that everyone is given an opportunity for self-support and helped and encouraged to put himself permanently on an independent economic footing.

Every member of the church has pledged himself and his family to omit two meals every month and give the money they would have spent to the committee in charge of this program of relief and rehabilitation. Local committees study the needs and capacity of every distressed member and devise ways to put him back on his feet, by the carrying out of which all other members cooperate. Food, clothing and shelter are provided for those for whom no immediate jobs can be found, but the principle that every man must work for what he gets, and that it is a shameful thing for anyone to live at others' expense and make no effort to give his work in return is insisted upon and constantly preached.

That seems like a thoroughly practical application of the fundamental Christian teaching of brotherhood.

THE FAMILY AIRPLANE

It was not long ago when an airplane flying overhead was a sight to bring everybody out of doors to gaze and marvel at the miracle of men flying. Now aircraft are nearly as common in most parts as automobiles—and a lot noisier. Probably for every person who has ever seen an American eagle in flight there are a thousand to whom planes are commonplace.

Flying is getting so popular that half the ambitious boys of today want to become aviators. And lots of folks are wondering when the time will come when any ordinary family can keep its own plane in the back yard and fly the children to school or the old man to his job.

Trouble with most airplanes is they take too much room to get off the ground and land again. What the country needs is a flying machine that will rise straight up and light the same way. The autogiro, which today looks like a flying windmill, can do that, but it doesn't fly fast enough to suit most folks—only 60 miles an hour or so, and you can do that in last year's car and think you're not taking any more chance than you would up in the air.

Somewhere showed off another "vertical" airplane in Philadelphia the other day. The Committee on National Resources says something of the sort is likely to be the basis of a big new industry. What the country needs, and the next generation will have, it looks like, is a safe family plane that won't cost more than a small automobile. One good thing about flying is that we don't have to raise taxes to build roads for them!

THE FUNCTION OF ADVERTISING

"Show me a single order that advertising ever puts on the books," demanded a hard-boiled manufacturer. "Show me a single loaf of bread that the man ever put in the barn," replied the advertising salesman, and then added, "the sun makes the hay but the farmer must put it in the barn. Advertising paves the way for the salesman, creates acceptance of your products and the desire to buy—that's the function of advertising. You pay your salesman to put the orders on the books—that's their function, and a mighty important one."—Typothetae Bulletin.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE FISH!

(Toronto Globe)

A man who has something to sell does not try to keep it a secret. He wants to call his merchandise to the attention of probable buyers, and to as many of them as possible. He wants to do it as thoroughly and as cheaply as he can be done.

His answer is newspaper advertising. He has found down through the years, that no other medium brings such big returns as does newspaper advertising.

The Dominion government, like any individual business man, has learned that, too. It became advisable a couple of years ago for the government, in the interests of fishermen on our coasts and lakes and, to promote the sale of fish within the Dominion. The object was to tell Canadians of the benefits of fish as food—and to keep on telling the public of those advantages in order to make the idea impressive.

No newspapers were used. There was not much money to invest, so the Dominion made an appropriation to buy newspaper space over a period of two years.

The effects were announced the other day, Hon. J. E. McLeod, Federal Minister of Fisheries, said that excellent results had been achieved; the whole Dominion had begun to eat fish regularly and a genuine interest had been created in methods of preparing and serving various kinds. At Lunenburg, N.S., the president of the Canadian Fisheries Association said that "the whole trade has benefited from the well-planned campaign" of newspaper advertising.

Attributable to no other evident reason, fish consumption in the Dominion had been increased by more than 15 per cent. That meant millions of dollars to the industry as a return on the Dominion investment.

The result was not surprising. It was to be expected. It merely proved once more that well known fact: Newspaper advertising pays.

FIGHTING AGAINST MONOPOLY

One of the most interesting stories in the annals of Western Canada is the record of the achievement of grain producers in the overcoming of the grain marketing monopoly which existed in the pioneer years. At one time in the history of the west a farmer couldn't load a car over a platform or dispose of his grain in any way save through a grain elevator, and then only on the terms dictated by the elevator company. Naturally such a monopolistic system created abuses. Grain producers successfully fought the monopoly and overcame it through the building up of co-operative institutions of their own.

It was a cry to the days of the early struggles of the pioneer grain farmers but the co-operative movement has gone onward. In this province it finds its highest development in Alberta Pool Elevators, an organization owned and controlled by grain producers and operated for the benefit of all.

Alberta Pool Elevators has determinedly fought for the welfare of the grain growing industry. Today it stands as a monument to the accomplishments of the pioneers in the co-operative movement. Farmers of the present age may know little of the struggles of older generations, but nevertheless they are being greatly benefited thereby.

Checking Up On Your Buying

About the same time that everyone was humming or whistling "The Pink Lady" there was a popular song that ran "every little movement has a meaning of its own." Paraphrasing the expression, every little mark (on every box of British Columbia peaches) has a meaning of its own.

On the end of every box is stamped the variety and it is quite a legal offence to mix varieties in the same box or to stamp in any manner that would mislead the innocent public.

The grade is also stamped on the end of the box. There are two grades for peaches, No. 1 and No. 2. The Dominion has very strict regulations as to what shall and shall not be considered as a No. 1 or No. 2 peach. And further that it has established the large corps of Dominion Inspectors to see that these grades are lived up to. Inspection is compulsory. Every shipment of peaches from British Columbia must be inspected before it leaves the packing house and must come up to Government standards.

By checking the markings on the end of the peach crate the prairie housewife can tell exactly what she is buying and what is more important can be absolutely certain that the contents of the box are in accordance with the markings and the regulations of the Dominion Government.

The one who presides at an organ, be it large or small, may be likened to the artist with his box of paints. In that he has at his command a number of colors which can be used singly or in combination.

Cancer deaths in Toronto in 1936 totalled 1077, the largest number in any year since 1920.

The Legion Notice Board

We publish this week a letter from Mrs. James Hay, President of the Wainwright Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Vermilion, which is self-explanatory:

"I am desirous of assisting if possible with the formation of a Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion at Wainwright.

The auxiliary has been found to be of inestimable assistance in connection with the Branch at Vermilion where there are approximately forty (40) members.

The aim of the auxiliary is to assist with the financing of the Legion Branch and to co-operate in the many ways which have been open to us.

If your Branch is interested in having an Auxiliary may I suggest that, at your convenience a meeting of all interested ladies might be called when myself or a representative of the Provincial Auxiliary could attend and outline the details of the work. I shall be glad to be of any service I can in this connection.

Yours sincerely,

(Sgd) MRS. JAMES HAY,
President of the Local Branch.
Well, ladies, what about it? We know, of course, that the Wainwright Branch has always had the finest possible co-operation from all ladies connected with our membership and we appreciate this very much. We have in fact, a very active Ladies' Auxiliary which is very much in evidence during our Poppy Campaign and the various activities and entertainments we have from time to time taken part in. The question is one for the ladies to decide and if there is enough interest in the matter this branch will be glad to call a meeting and help with the formal organization.

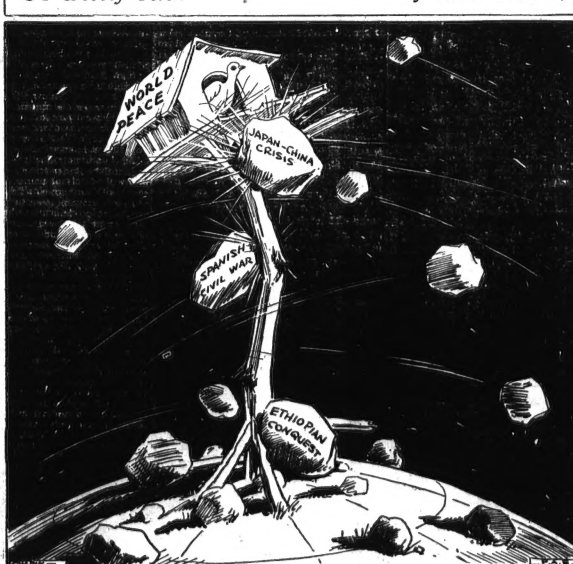

G-Men Break Up Counterfeit Ring

The counterfeiting racket which is the basis for next week's Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday picture at the Elit is a subject in which there is unusual interest. Criminals deprived of the lush profits of pre-repeal days have turned to the manufacture of queer money on a scale that has brought the racket forcibly to the attention of both the public and the federal government.

In this story the subject, approached from a dramatic-romantic viewpoint, is traced in all its many ramifications. While it is a picture of the government's attempt to break up a notorious counterfeiting ring it also is the story of an undercover operative and a girl who is the innocent tool of a cruel and resourceful racketeer brain. Majoring on action adventure, it takes the operative into the inside of the counterfeiting ring, supposedly making him a ruthless killer, and as he falls in love with the girl, he finds himself in the spot where he is ordered to kill her lest she betray gang confidences. Building to a thrill climax various forces of the government converge to trap the ringleader as the undercover man saves the girl. Chester Morris plays the lead role with Marian Marsh as the girl decoy about whom the adventurous love interest rotates. Lloyd Nolan is the counterfeit king.

SYNOPSIS: Ellen Mackay, on her way from school at Winnipeg, to join her father at Fort Edson, misses the boat by which she was to travel. Hearing that another boat is to start north in the morning, Ellen goes to the owner, John Benham, and begs him to give her a passage. To her surprise he flatly refuses.

Angry and puzzled Ellen tells Pat McClatchey, a kindly old storekeeper of her difficulty and Pat with the help of one of Benham's crew succeeds in getting Ellen on board as a stowaway.

When the vessel is well under way Ellen emerges from her hiding place and faces John Benham who now cannot help taking her with him.

During the voyage Ellen begins to be strongly attracted by John. But when she reaches Fort Edson she finds her father broken, ill and disgraced, and learns that his troubles are due to one man—John Benham.

Ellen goes to her feet and says: "That need not worry you, Trooper Whitlow," she stated quietly. "I had already made up my mind to return immediately. I will be ready to leave in an hour."

Angus Mackay began to object. "But you are weary, lass. You—"

"I am not nearly as weary as I was," broke in Ellen with a queer smile. "In an hour, Trooper."

There was a vast difference in the trip back to Mink Lake for Ellen. Coming out, she had travelled through a drab, lowering world, in which not one lot of worthiness existed. She had heard nothing, seen less. Her spirits had plumed the depths and remained there. It seemed there was no brightness, no beauty, no truth in all the universe.

Now, however, it was different. The sheen of sunlight, the whispering incense of the forest, the gay laughter of the birds, all were reported to in kind by a thrilling inner consciousness.

Ellen made no further attempt to blind herself to the reason for this change. She knew, and found warm joy in the finding. Ellen Mackay was honest with herself.

John Benham was not a half-breed.

This knowledge rang through her mind like the chiming of some brilliant tongue. Over and over the words rhymed and she clung to them as to something precious and indissoluble.

There was a reason for this and that reason, too, Ellen admitted to herself. She loved John Benham. She loved him through the ages it seemed.

From the first time he had bent those clear, flawless eyes upon her he had taken her heart though she had not realized it until he had turned away from her in the Indian camp and crashed the damning whisky bottle against a tree.

Then she had known, and the knowledge had exacted a bitterness of thought, had feeling that had borne down upon her with a crushing, restraining weight.

It mattered not, now, that she was responsible for the information that had set this cold, brusque man in the bow of the canoe on Benham's trail. If he were guilty, then she would battle side by side with him to do what she could to bring to whatever exactness the law might impose. If he could, by some Divine aid, prove his innocence, then she must also be there beside him and ask forgiveness for her part in his accusation.

She never thought that her utter change in spirit might be noted by Trooper Whitlow. But he had noted it and knew that it dated from that moment when he had told of John Benham's parents. There were times, now, as he sensed the burning spirit of the girl, when just the shadow of a grin smelt flickered across his eyes.

In the stern of the canoe, stoic and still as feature, old Moosac looked at her with steady, undying dog-like adoration.

For two days they pressed northward towards Mink Lake, and the trooper and Moosac paddled from before dawn until long after dark. Their camps were swiftly and frugally prepared. The policeman and the old Indian ate quickly, and sought their blankets to combat the weariness of their ceaseless paddling. So it was that Ellen had long hours to herself through the day and beside the tiny fire at night in which to think.

There were times when these thoughts frightened her, and when, at the start of the trip, she had been consumed with eagerness, now her heart would fall her and she dreaded the moment when she must again face John Benham and steel herself to the scorn and reproach his glance would hold.

And then, on the morning of the third day, there came an interruption in their steady progress.

At a sharp turn of the river they met four heavily-loaded York boats, manned by a motley crew of half-breeds and Yellowknife Indians. Trooper Whitlow studied the boats and cargoes keenly and suddenly just as the last boat was about to pass when he signalled Moosac, and whistled the canoe about in pursuit of them.

At first the boat crews bent to their oars frantically, but when they saw the swift ease with which the feather-like canoe overhauled them they ceased rowing, and crouched back, silent and angry.

Whitlow guided the canoe to the rear boat and stepped aboard with hardly a look at the crew he swung back the tarpaulin covering the cargo to disclose several small oaken kegs and numerous cases of bottles. Catching up one of the bottles, he smashed it across the gunwale of the boat and amidst the shattered remnants in his hand. Then he turned on the crew sternly.

"Where did you get this whisky?" he demanded, his voice harsh and uncompromising.

Ellen crouched in her canoe, her eyes wide, her heart thundering in her breast. Moosac's beady eyes were gleaming in ferocious joy.

"Hurry up," snapped the trooper again. "Where did you get this whisky?"

"Where did you get this whisky?" snapped the trooper.

"Where did you get this whisky?" snapped the trooper.

on the breed again.

"Where are you taking this whisky?"

"Down to get Great Slave Lake," muttered the breed. "M'amu Detouroux she's meet in then, an' she's head for an Yellowknife River."

Whitlow nodded. "Land this boat on the beach and have the rest follow suit," he commanded crisply.

Cultural orders followed, and the York boats beached side by side. With deft sureness Whitlow examined the cargoes. Only one boat contained whisky. The other three were loaded with baked furs. Whitlow nodded as though some unspoken colloquy had found substantiation. He pointed at the whisky.

Grandmother never felt that her preserving season was over until she could stand back and survey dozens of bottles of ketchup—or ketchup she called it, anyway. All during the winter and spring these bottles were called upon to give a "bang" to the meals. Cold roast beef with catsup—that was good. Shell fish called insistently for ketchup. And a piece of bread, spread with ketchup, was no novelty as a before bed bite.

Here are hints for ketchup lovers. Perhaps they are new to you. Try them and they will immediately become favorites:

Liver Loaf
1 1/2 lbs. liver (best)
2 tablespoons parsley
1 tablespoon onion
1 green pepper
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
2 eggs
1 cup meat stock
1/2 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons fat pork or drippings

Teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dried celery
Wipe liver out into slices, then put through a food chopper together with parsley, onion and pepper. Add crumbs moistened in the beaten egg, stock, milk, fat and seasonings. If meat stock is not available, use a beef bouillon cube, dissolved in 1 cup boiling water. Mix well. Turn into well greased baking dish or mold and set in a pan of hot water. Bake 1 1/2 hours in a slow oven (325 degrees F.). Serve hot or cold with ketchup, chili sauce or tomato sauce. Yield: 8 servings.

Cecils with Ketchup
1 cup cold roast beef or rare steak finely chopped
Salt and pepper
Onion juice
Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons melted butter
Yolk of 1 egg, slightly beaten
Season beef with salt, pepper, onion juice and Worcestershire sauce. Mix in remaining ingredients in the form of croquettes. Roll in flour, egg and crumbs. Fry in deep fat, drain and serve with heated tomato ketchup.

BAKED CORNED BEEF
4 lbs. corned beef
Whole cloves
1 cup brown sugar, maple syrup or strained honey
Put corned beef into a kettle with cold water to cover. Bring rapidly to the boiling point; skim; immediately reduce the heat and let simmer slowly until the meat is tender. Remove from water. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Rub brown sugar over corned beef or pour over it maple syrup or strained honey. Stick with whole cloves in diagonal rows and place in a moderate oven (300-350 degrees F.) until the surface is nicely browned. Serve with ketchup.

THOSE IRON FOODS
It's a good idea to have lists of foods that are rich in the various minerals and salts. One never knows when some member of the family, neighbor or friend may need the advice such lists will enable you to give.

Lean beef is exceptionally rich in iron. If you do not care for beef, say, Well, this much is settled."

He was thoughtful for a moment. Then he turned with sparkling eyes. "I'm going to send this shipment of furs directly to Fort Edson. Your father can grade them and put down a blanket credit on the books. Then it will be up to him and yourself to see that these starving tribes have visited are carried through the coming winter with food and proper supplies. These supplies can be charged out against the fur credit."

"And no doubt there are other tribes that Detouroux has not been able to reach yet. When he fails to show up they will come sinking in to the fort with their furs. They won't dare wait too long. What do you think of the scheme?"

Hints for the Household

SOME HELPFUL HINTS
Do you have trouble with head lettuce leaves breaking? Cut them around the core with a sharp knife and hold them under running water as you pull them off.

PERNS often worry us when on a short vacation. Place a large pan of water on the stand near the fern. Dip one end of a small towel in the pan of water and another in the fern dish. Then you do not require the services of a forgetful neighbor.

To remove finger marks on a highly polished piano or radio wipe with a cloth wet in pure cold water, then dry with another cloth. This restores the new look at once.

THIS WEEK'S BEST RECIPE
Toast Nests
Take thick slices of stale bread about three inches square, cut off the corners and scoop out center. (Use waste bread to roll and dry for other things.) Toast, slice and brown in the oven. Before taking out of oven, butter generously, drop a whole egg in and cook for a few minutes.

NOW BREAD CRUSTS TURN INTO DELICIOUS COOKIES
WITH MAGICAL SPEED
The modern youngster won't believe you if you say that crumbs make the hair curl. But the modern mother gets rid of heels of bread just the same. She rolls them into crumbs, combines them with sweetened condensed milk, and in less than 15 minutes, has a jafal of such delectable cookies that the children gobble them up as fast as they can get them. Crusts, or any other stale bread, for that matter, should be crushed with a rolling pin or put through a food grinder to make crumbs, and kept in a covered jar until needed.

Magic Chocolate Crumb Cookies
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-1/3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1 cup toasted bread crumbs
Few grains salt
1/2 cup walnut or pecan nut meats
24 walnut or pecan halves (optional)

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water 5 minutes or until mixture thickens. Add toasted bread crumbs, salt and nut meats which have been chopped. Blend thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Press half a nut meat into each cookie, if desired. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 24.

Nut Strudels
1 cup nut meats
1-1/3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Put nut meats in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water 5 minutes or until mixture thickens. Add dry bread crumbs, salt and cinnamon which have been chopped. Blend thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Press half a nut meat into each cookie, if desired. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes, or until brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 24.

SUMMER SALADS

Do you remember the trouble poor "Alice in the Looking Glass" had with her cakes? One made her shrink almost out of sight and the other made her uncomfortably large so that she had to work out a happy blending of the two to keep herself her own pleasant natural size.

Summer diet offers the housewife just such a problem in balance as "Alice's." Too many heavy foods are distasteful, if not absolutely harmful, while light foods constantly served become insipid and tiresome. So, in order to find a happy medium between the two hearty and the too dainty we turn to salads.

Summer salads, more often than not, fill dual roles. The fish and meat salad answers for main course as well as salad course and the fruit salad does duty for salad and dessert. Choose your salad and build your menu around it and your meals will be well balanced and interesting.

When the main course takes the place of the usual cold meats, the meal with a hot soup and finish up with one of those favorite old-fashioned desserts like dumplings and cobblers and roly-polys. A hot vegetable like sweet corn or lima beans should be served with the main course.

The menu planned to include the salad and dessert combination may start with a chilled first course, go on to the usual hot main course and finish up with crackers and cheese and coffee. Jellied bouillon, chilled vegetable juice cocktail or a zesty appetizer such as sardine make splendid first courses for this type of meal. Since the dessert-salad invariably is a fruit combination, it's better not to make the first course of fruit.

These dessert salads are ideal for summer entertaining, too. Served with a tray of sandwiches and hot coffee they are refreshing and satisfying.

FOR BETTER HEALTH

BY DR. J. ROSSLYN EARP

Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health

ALCOHOL AND THE MIND

In the year 1923 a statistical study was made of all patients who were admitted during the previous year to attack of mental disorder on account of alcohol. There were 2,693 such patients and 1,983, almost three-quarters of them, were between 30 and 35 years of age. To the mind, as to the body, alcohol is a tragic enough but to lose it in the full maturity of physical and intellectual life is a social as well as a personal tragedy.

These patients had been drinking heavily for a number of years. In many cases the health of the body had also been affected, the common complaint being inflammation of the stomach. Several kinds of mental disorder are found among these patients. Some lost control of their emotions. They became disgruntled and easily angered, or facetious, careless and imprudent. Others imagine enemies among their neighbors, become jealous without cause, a prey to fears that are unfounded. Others again are delirious, see creatures and hear voices that do not really exist.

But before there is such loss of contact with the real world as can be certified as insanity there are signs from which the wise may take warnings: dependence on drink to avoid discomfort; perpetual need for a "stimulant"; a desire to escape from the difficulties of life; broken sleep disturbed by dreams; tremor and diffidence. All these may come from drinking alcohol, may be temporarily dispelled by drinking more alcohol in a vicious circle. The circle can be broken but only under conditions of helpful discipline. Such conditions can rarely be provided outside of a social institution.

HOW'S YOUR BUSINESS ?

It is not a mere coincidence that newspaper advertising volume continues to grow and that business continues to expand. There is business to be had in an ever-swelling volume and the wise business man knows that the way to get it is through newspaper advertising. The concerns that had the greatest increase in volume last year were those that did the greatest amount of newspaper advertising.

Newspaper advertising pays today as never before because the consumer knows that steadily rising prices of consumer commodities makes keen buying imperative if the budget is not to be stretched too far, and reads the advertisements.

Newspaper advertising has played a great part in creating modern civilization. It has brought about large-scale production and lower prices, thus benefiting both producer and consumer. It will play an even larger role in the post depression days. There is a pent-up market for goods today that can be turned into mass sales by the newspaper advertiser, and the people are reading the ads as never before to determine where they can spend their money to the best advantage.

WAINWRIGHT STAR

This Week in Washington

WASHINGTON.—The first session of the 76th Congress is now at the point of adjournment as the 100th anniversary of the Nation is about to be celebrated by the observance of the Constitutional Bicentennial. It will go down in political history not so much for what it has done as for what it has refused to do.

It refused to grant power to the President to enlarge the Supreme Court, and now its members are anxious to get back home and put their ears to the ground, to find out whether their constituents will stand by them, or whether the President still has, as he believes, the overwhelming support of the voters.

All of the Representatives and a third of the Senators come up for re-election next year. In the Southern states, where victory at the Democratic primaries has always been tantamount to election, they have only half a year or so in which to build their fences before the Spring primaries.

That is one reason for opposition to the suggested recess until October, so that the Administration's proposals could be cleared off the slate and the road cleared for the big business of the second session, which is tax revision. Another reason is that if they took a recess, the boys would have to pay their own railroad fares home and back, whereas if they adjourn they can collect ten cents a mile from the Treasury, both ways.

Future of New Deal

The one chance of something like members who have gone counter to the President is that they will tone down their opposition only if they are trapped on by the folks back home, but will put up a strong fight to swing public sentiment their way unless they find that course hopeless. Those who have stood by the Administration are equally eager to learn at first hand whether they have helped or hampered their own political fortunes. What they find out will determine the temper of the session which will begin next January.

The whole future of the New Deal is wrapped up in the answer to the question whether the electorate still stands overwhelmingly behind the President or backs up Congress in its bid for independence. Thus the second session of this Congress may well be of even greater political importance than the first has been.

Sino-Japanese Situation

The one chance of something like harmony, showed observers here believe, is that the fortunes of the United States may become so involved in the war situation in Asia as to focus public interest and attention upon the war to the exclusion of all domestic matters. Nobody publicly goes so far as to even breathe the possibility that the United States may have to take a hand—on China's side—in the conflict between Japan and China.

But it is known that the State Department is very much concerned, the Navy is recruiting up to war strength and concentrating fighting ships, munitions and supplies at our Pacific naval bases, the Army and the Marine Corps are getting into fighting trim and the Government is rushing its new military airplane program, in its own factories and those of private contractors.

Add those facts up to the certainty that the "cash-and-carry" provisions of the Pittman Neutrality Resolution give Japan all the advantage, the fact that the people of the Pacific Coast and Hawaii still fear Japan as an enemy getting ready to strike without warning, the recent expressions from Filipino leaders regretting their impulsive demand for independence and begging Uncle Sam not to leave them at Japan's mercy, and the traditional policy of America to do all in its power to maintain the integrity of China, and you have the makings of a pretty little war scare.

Odd Against Japan

Some observers of international affairs here believe that Great Britain is similarly concerned over the China-Japanese situation and that that is why the British government has been making overtures to Mussolini, designed to remove the friction between England and Italy in the Mediterranean and so leave England free to protect her interests in the Far East which are distinctly in China and opposed to Japan's. Should it come to a showdown, it is regarded as certain here that the United States and Great Britain would be found standing shoulder to shoulder on the side of China against Japan.

But even a series of events such as would lead up to such a demonstration would have a decided jittery effect upon the American people, and would quite certainly focus the attention of Congress and the Administration, to the exclusion of almost everything else.

Labor Party in 1940

The political effect of a foreign war or war scare has, historically, always been to harmonize the American people and make them forget their political differences for the time being. Likewise, it has always been to exalt the Administration then in office, and the President, who under the Constitution, is Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy.

It would be a scandalous overstatement to say that anybody in Washington is hopeful that such a war situation will develop; the precise contrary is more nearly true. But it is a contingency which is getting serious attention from many of the ablest political leaders.

The labor situation is beginning to take on political aspects, with the Presidential campaign of 1940 in the offing. The retirement of Mr. Roosevelt's friend, Major George L. Berry, U.S. Senator from Tennessee, from the presidency of Labor's non-Partisan League, and the election of John L. Lewis to succeed him, is regarded here as a move toward putting a new Labor Party into the field in 1940.

That Lewis will be its candidate is regarded as doubtful, but he will be the dominant force.

Judging by Experience

JUDGING BY EXPERIENCE A GOOD PLACE TO DELIVER YOUR GRAIN IS YOUR U.G.G. ELEVATOR. THAT, FOR MANY YEARS, HAS BEEN THE EXPERIENCE OF THOUSANDS OF FARMERS THROUGHOUT WESTERN CANADA.

DELIVER YOUR GRAIN TO UNITED GRAIN GROWERS LTD.
Elevators at: Wainwright, Irma, Edgerton, Ribstone.

HARVEST IS HERE AGAIN

And it will be a small harvest at the best. We have the Gilbert Harvester Stacker that will get the most out of what you grow, and save it against all hazards. Once your crop is in the stack, come what may—hail, snow, or wind—your grain is protected. If you should get snowed in before threshing your stack can well stay until next year, and then thresh the same grade of wheat as you cut this year.

Some are afraid of the pig-weed this year, but tests have been made whereby one can use ventilators or driers and still stack the grain. By this method one can safely stack the grain right from the cutting bar. By this method alfalfa and sweet clover have been stacked without previous curing and been properly cured and made into better feed than by the old method.

Science has been working for your benefit, and the GILBERT HARVESTER STACKER is one device that will do more for the saving of your valuable crop than the old binder method.

For those who will use the binder method of harvesting, may we remind you that we still sell the old reliable BRANTFORD BINDER TWINE. This twine has long been recognized as the best of all. Well treated for insects and mice; full weight and length in every ball. Always sold at competitive prices now quoted at:—

550 Ft. Silver Leaf, per cwt. $10.00
600 Ft. Gold Leaf, per cwt. $10.75

Come in and get the dope on the Gilbert Harvester Stacker. It's yours for the asking. We will use our influence in helping to organize partnership arrangements when necessary, if your crop does not have the storage to warrant the purchase of the machine individually.

Mr. L. P. Evans, of the Battle View Oil Ltd., who has been spending a short vacation at Jasper Park, has now returned here. Mr. J. L. Graham, of Toronto, of the same company came in on Tuesday. We understand it is the intention of this company to commence drilling through the cement plug in the well today (Wednesday) and it is hoped to bring the well into production within the next week or ten days. This well gave splendid indications when the bits reached the oil horizon in the north field, and big results in the local oil game are looked for from the efforts of this company.

Having completed her holiday at Pigeon Lake following attendance at summer school at Verdby, Miss M. Steel has now returned home ready for her fall term duties.
